Manufacturing Learning Experience

Paul Normand
Principal Content Developer/SME

Jay Grossman
Principal User Experience Designer
Agenda

- Introductions
- The new world of learning experience
- What we did
- Did we get it right
- What else is important to you?
Introductions

Name

Company

Title / Position

Autodesk Products Used
The New World of Learning
Experience
WikiHelp retires
Transition from Wiki to the Autodesk Knowledge Network

New learning and support environment
Content for the way you work

Easy to Find/ There when you need it

Small Bites/ Easy to Consume

Personal, Fun, & Engaging
We support how you work

- Home dashboard
- Consolidated search
- Interactive tutorial path
- Learning path
- UI control for offline online
- Improved access to Help
Inventor Home: Your own personal dashboard
Interactive Tutorial Path

Guides you through learning the basics
Interactive Tutorial Enhancements

Used survey data to target improvements

- 12 new tutorials with complete end to end workflow
- Progress tracking
- Improved authoring process
Autodesk Knowledge Network Learning Path

- Access from the Help menu
- Enables visual exploration

Would you want ability to customize this for your learning needs?
Team Web (what is it?)
New UI control for Online / Offline

Help Options

- Autodesk Online Help
- Installed Local Help

Note: To enable these options, local help must be downloaded from Autodesk.com

Greyed out if local help is not installed
Chronicle

An easy and intuitive tool to record and share a video tutorial with richly-detailed information about the features used

Inventor Labs release

http://labs.autodesk.com/utilities/chronicle
Did we hit the mark?
If we could give you ONE thing to improve learning, what would that be?
Of everything we discussed today…..

- What will be most useful?
- What does it solve for you?
Action for you – we listen! We need your feedback

Share your ideas of how to improve Inventor with the Development team

http://forums.autodesk.com/t5/Inventor-IdeaStation/idb-p/v1232