Co Founder and Director, FloodSlicer

Additional Material

As promised in the class here is a link to an article written by Samantha Slicer for Architect Victoria (Spring 2014 Edition) which has some relevance to some of the points raised in the session.

The first link is straight through to the article. The second takes you to the beginning of the magazine and contents page. There are some other articles which are also very pertinent to the examination of the relationship between architecture and visualization.
